

Are you currently taking any prescription or OTC medications?

What was the first thing you did after being prescribed medication?

How often do you take them?

Are they short or long term?

How many do you take?

If only taking 1 medication:

Do you research the drug before taking it?

When do you do that research?

If yes, how do you conduct the research (online, doctor, friends)?

What are you looking for when researching (Doses, side effects, studies, alternatives, recalls)?

What is the most important factor to you?

What was your experience like researching the medication?

If you research and find adverse effects, will you still take the medication?

Are you aware of or experience any side effects?

Besides doctors/family, where else do you look for advice on medications?

How do you remind yourself to take the drug?

Does the drug manufacturer behind the medication matter to you?

If taking multiple medications:

Do you research the drugs before taking them?

When do you do that research?

If yes, how do you conduct the research (online, doctor, friends)?

What are you looking for when researching (Doses, side effects, studies, alternatives, recalls)?

What is the most important factor to you?

What was your experience like researching the medication?

Do you research the compatibility/interactivity between medications?

If you research and find adverse effects / interactivity, will you still take the medication(s)?

At what point do you determine the side effects too severe?

Do you talk about interactivity between the medications with your doctor?

Are you aware of or experience any side effects with the medications?

Besides doctors/family, where else do you look for advice on medications?

How do you remind yourself to take the drug(s)?

Does the drug manufacturer behind the medication matter to you?

How do you record what drugs to take when?

If you are on a prescription, and you have to take an OTC medication due to unforeseen circumstances, what do you do to check if it's safe?

Have you helped a family member with their prescription or OTC medication?

What was your experience like?

Did you have pain points?